An afternoon with your dog, and a little one to keep afterwards.

Photographs, modelling and printing — all by the same pair of hands.

PORTFOLIO

Your dog, twice.

Metro Vancouver
English · Cantonese · Mandarin

Spend an afternoon together. Take one home.

We go somewhere your dog likes, and I photograph the way they actually are — the daft grin, the ears, the way they lean on you. Then I pick one frame, model it, and print it small enough to sit on your desk.

FROM THE PHOTOGRAPH, TO SOMETHING YOU CAN HOLD

Your photograph, then the same dog in your hand.

Anywhere from 1×1 to 3×3 cm.

- It comes to you unpainted. Most people paint it themselves, at the kitchen table, badly and happily. That part is yours.
- Nothing is off a shelf. It is modelled from your dog, so the ears sit the way your dog's ears sit. No two come out the same.
- Cats, rabbits, birds, the old one who has gone. Send a photograph and ask.

Tell me about your dog.

or tell your cat i say pspsps

A photograph and a few lines is enough to start.
